

three-headed foofaraw

from a

LOST DIMENSION

Vol. β

April 2025

$1.25

everything coming out over the course of the next month that you have to look forward to.

Unfortunately, I won't be talking about comics from prior months until I'm gainfully employed again and can afford being a little frivolous with my money again.

makes the best choices, but I'll be damned if they aren't interesting choices.

Oh, and I have to mention The Righteous Gemstones, which kicked off its final season. If you watched the previous seasons, you know exactly what you are getting as it's more of that, which is a great thing! I'm going to miss this one, but can't wait to see what Danny McBride cooks up next.

Out in the land of music, there's really only one album that I think is really worth mentioning, and that's Dead Channel Sky by clipping.

I always check out what clipping puts out, but they've never really struck a chord for me until this release. Daveed Diggs always has immaculate flow, but the production feels a bit more tightened up and less industrial feeling here, which made things click a lot more for me.

Lastly, in the world of movies, the two bigger releases, both of which I saw in theaters, were Mickey 17 and Death of a Unicorn.

I'm glad I saw Mickey 17 in theaters as I think Bong Joon-ho mostly delivered on what he set out to do. It wasn't a complete home run, but was still enjoyable and Robert Pattinson was incredible in it.

Death of a Unicorn was fine. You can wait to see it at home though.

MARCH

Consider this a beta issue of something new. As you can likely tell, it shares the same style and idea that birthed LLoN, but born out of trying to add value to the foofaraw subscription.

A few of the people reading this (yeah you) might remember picking up a copy of nonsense. way back in April of 2023. It was a pretty simple look ahead at the movies, comics, tv shows, and album coming out that month.

That's the idea we are going for here as well. A mix of that and LLoN in this single page zine style thing but at for a much bigger bang for your buck, at least I hope so.

I'm still playing around with the idea and figuring out exactly what this will be, but to start it'll run through some of what came in the prior month and then run down

It was a really solid month for TV. Obviously The White Lotus, Yellowjackets, and Severance continued on and/or concluded, but two new shows debuted that I'm particularly jazzed about.

First is The Studio, which I was already excited about, but the first three episodes have absolutely surpassed my expectations. You can tell they had an idea they were excited about and threw absolutely everything at it. And the cinematography! Holy moly! The way the camera tracks around as Seth Rogen frantically bounces around is stunning.

Then there's MobLand, which at this point, I've only seen the first episode of, but there's enough intrigue there to grab my attention. I don't know that I can say Tom Hardy always

April Releases

TV SHOWS

April has some pretty exciting shows, but the end of the second week is where things really get interesting. There's Black Mirror, sure, but John Hamm leads a new Apple show Your Friends & Neighbors that has a lot of buzz around it and has already been picked up for a second season, making for a great follow-up to The Studio. But then HBO is also bringing back two of their biggest shows in Hacks and The Last of Us, as they keep the action going to follow White Lotus and The Righteous Gemstones.

- * Dying for Sex (Hulu) – 04 Apr
- * Black Mirror S7 (Netflix) – 09 Apr
- * Your Friends & Neighbors (Apple) – 10 Apr
- * Hacks S4 (HBO) – 10 Apr
- * The Last of Us S2 (HBO) – 13 Apr
- * Government Cheese S1 (Apple) – 15 Apr
- * The Rehearsal S2 (HBO) – 20 Apr
- * Andor S2 (Disney) – 22 Apr
- * You S5 (Netflix) – 24 Apr

MOVIES

Things aren't so hot in the world of movies though. Warfare from Alex Garland that plays out in real time looks interesting and Sinners from Ryan Coogler and starring Michael B. Jordan is probably my pick of most exciting release. I'm also keeping an eye on The Legend of Ochi. Oh! And Havoc was one of my most anticipated movies of 2023—but given the delay and dump, I'm really worried about it.

- * Warfare – 11 Apr
- * The Amateur – 11 Apr

- * The Shrouds – 18 Apr
- * Sinners – 18 Apr
- * Cheech & Chong's Last Movie – 25 Apr
- * The Trouble with Jessica – 25 Apr
- * The Accountant 2 – 25 Apr
- * The Legend of Ochi – 25 Apr
- * Havoc – 25 Apr

ALBUMS

It doesn't seem to be the best month for new music, but it's still exciting to be getting a new Black Country, New Road album to start things out. And then there's Pigs (x7), who are new to me, but with a name like that, come on!

- * Forever Howlong by Black Country, New Road – 04 Apr
- * Welcome to My Blue Sky by Momma – 04 Apr
- * Death Hilarious by Pigs Pigs Pigs Pigs Pigs Pigs Pigs – 04 Apr
- * Bunky Becky Birthday Boy by Sleigh Bells – 04 Apr
- * SABLE, fABLE by Bon Iver – 11 Apr
- * And the Adjacent Possible by OK Go – 11 Apr
- * Send a Prayer My Way by Julien Baker & TORRES – 18 Apr
- * Thee Black Boltz by Tunde Adebimpe – 18 Apr
- * Noble and Godlike in Ruin by Deerhoof – 25 Apr
- * The Film by Suman and Moor Mother – 25 Apr

COMICS

Also not the best month for new comics. But there is one in particular that I'm extremely excited for and that's Lost Fantasy, which is the new book from Curt Pires (Indigo Children) with art by Luca Casalanguida (Displaced). It's being billed as East of West meets Something is Killing the Children and the cover is beautiful. April 30th is also Free Comic Book Day, so head out and support your local shop if there's one in your area.

- * I Was a Fashion School Serial Killer (Image) – 02 Apr
- * Resurrection Man: Quantum Karma (DC) – 02 Apr
- * Absolute Green Lantern (DC) – 02 Apr
- * Adventure Time (Oni) – 09 Apr
- * Golden Rage: Mother Knows Best (Image) – 09 Apr
- * Vatican City (Dark Horse) – 09 Apr
- * Superior Avengers (Marvel) – 16 Apr
- * Moonshine Bigfoot (Image) – 16 Apr
- * Youngblood (Image) – 16 Apr
- * Captain Planet (Dynamite) – 23 Apr
- * Arcana Royale (Dark Horse) – 23 Apr
- * Lost Fantasy (Image) – 30 Apr
- * FREE COMIC BOOK DAY APR 30

